Business & Complex Commercial Litigation
Employment Litigation

Nicholas S. S. Rogers is a litigator with a diverse practice encompassing commercial disputes, complex estate litigation, employment matters, constitutional issues, and alcohol regulatory compliance. He approaches each case with efficiency, pragmatism, and an eye toward identifying client-centered solutions from a case's outset. Nicholas is a committed advocate who treats every matter with the focus and dedication he would bring to his own.

Since joining the firm, Nicholas has played a key role in resolving significant matters for clients. He successfully settled a shareholders' dispute involving a multi-million-dollar company, securing a settlement amount worth two to three times the value of his client's minority interest. In another matter, he helped a local sports association remain on its premises after a land sale threatened its future, preserving its long-term viability. Additionally, Nicholas assisted another client in navigating the complexities of estate planning to ensure the continuity of a family business.

Before joining Quattlebaum, Grooms & Tull PLLC in 2023, Nicholas served as a law clerk to the Honorable Kristine G. Baker of the U.S. District Court for the Eastern District of Arkansas. During his two-year clerkship, he gained experience with a wide range of matters, including constitutional claims, labor disputes, and issues involving federal regulation.

Prior to his legal career, Nicholas worked in the political and public policy sectors. He served as an aide to then-U.S. Senator Mark Pryor and later as Vice President for Media Analysis at a Washington, D.C.-based research and consulting firm. He earned both his J.D. and Master of Public Policy from the University of Virginia, following several years of professional experience in government and strategic communications.

A native of Conway, Arkansas, Nicholas graduated summa cum laude from the University of Central Arkansas, earning a bachelor's degree in Spanish and International Studies. He was named Outstanding Student in International Studies in 2011 and was a seven-time Presidential Scholar and member of the Alpha Chi National Honors Scholarship Society.

Nicholas spends his time outside of the office studying wine and foreign languages. He holds a Level One certification from the Court of Master Sommeliers and is currently preparing for the Level Two (Certified Sommelier) exam. He is also studying French with an eye toward future pursuits in international viticulture and oenology. Nicholas enjoys spending his free time with his wife, daughter, and their corgi.
